

THE NEW YORK TIMES, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 2003

Galleries: 57th Street

HEATHER BENNETT, Luxe, 24 West 57th Street, (212) 404-7455 (through March 1). Following in the footsteps of Cindy Sherman, this young conceptualist having her first solo show stars in big, glossy photographs that closely mimic aggressively sexy ads for Calvin Klein, Versace, Guess and other purveyors of women's fashions. They are meant as feminist parodies, but they have an erotic intensity of their own that blurs the line between seduction and critique (Johnson).