

The fine arts The Fashion victim

A show of untitled photographs by Heather Bennett opens from 6-8 p.m. Friday and continues through Aug. 15 at the William Shearburn Gallery, 4740 McPherson Avenue. Free. 314-367-8020.

The latest reign of the fashionistas might have ended with the Bush recession, but Washington University graduate Heather Bennett keeps the heat on the shallow and fabulous. In 60-by-48-inch digital photographs mounted on masonite, she restages familiar ads from fashion houses such as Versace, Dolce & Gabbana, Gucci and Donna Karan, inserting herself as the object of desire in each with the help of some of her willing male friends. Homage or critique? You have to decide for yourself.

Heather Bennett critiques fashion photography in a new show at William Shearburn Gallery.

Separation.” Based on a true story, “Six Degrees” looks at a relationship that develops between a wealthy white couple and a young black man. A hit on Broadway in 1990, the edgy comedy fascinated its original audience — dominated by affluent New Yorkers — with its

Webster University graduate Gail Morris has lived all over the world, but since the late '70s she has called California home. She is returning to St. Louis with evidence: landscape paintings of the rolling hills — golden brown in the dry season, emerald green in the

Pull out all the Organist Mario Di recital at 3 p.m. St. Cathedral Basilica, 4431 Lindell Boulevard. Donation is $5 at 533-7662.

Archdiocesan John Romeri Archdiocesan been busily pe Italy, so it seem that an outstar from Milano s perform here. is a noted solo ing organ recit the world), co (working with soloists and er scholar and te appearing at t Basilica in the with a program Guilmant, Var Capocci and c

Separation anxiety

Stray Dog Theatre opens “Six Degrees of Separation” at 8 p.m. Friday at the City Studio, 4397 Laclede Avenue. Performances are at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday through July 25-27. $15 general admission, $12 students and older adults. 314-531-5923.

Having a ball

“Cinderella” opens Monday and runs at the Muni in F is at 8:15 each n free seats. 314-5 1111, www.metro or www.muni.com

It always seen